Four More Days Of Great Bach Festival Programs

Overflow crowds, occasionally brilliant sunshine and equally brilliant performances are making a great success of the 21st Annual Bach Festival. Evening concerts, organ recitals and Mr. Morton's lecture have drawn more than capacity crowds with more visitors arriving for the final weekend events. Two organ recitals this afternoon at 3:00 and 4:00 o'clock in the Church of the Wayfarer, a concert tonight in Sunset Auditorium, recitals on Friday and Saturday morning at 11:00 o'clock in the Carmel Woman's Club, concerts Friday and Saturday night, and two performances of the Passion of Our Lord According to Saint John on Sunday, July 20 at 2:30 and again at 8:30 o'clock bring to a close this year's festival.

Tonight's concert brings the Jenny Hunter Dance Group in a Dance Suite by Lully-Mottl, for the first performance by dancers in a Bach Festival. Colin and Roberta Sterne, renowned specialists in the playing of ancient instruments, will appear on Thursday night's program in Telemann's Concerto in E minor for Recorder, Baroque Flute and Orchestra. Traffic Stymies Board

Puzzled planning commissioners, in study session yesterday afternoon, tried to decide which of three possible routes would best bring traffic into Carmel from the planned state freeway interchange at Highway One and the north end of Carpenter Street, and then how to get it out of town.

In October the state begins freeway construction starting at the Highway One Pebble Beach Gate and ending at the Carpenter Street entrance to Carmel, where traffic will eventually be routed into the city by means of an interchange.

In the General Plan being considered by the council, Junipero Street is designated as the main traffic approach from the north within the city limits. From the city boundary to the interchange at Highway One the plan routes traffic over county roads along a portion of Camino Del Monte to the end of Pico Street, then extends Pico from Cabrillo, through a residential block, to join the County Road extension of Carpenter Street to the freeway interchange.

At present the state has a road plan ending at the interchange. Carmel has a proposed road plan to the city limits in the General Plan. The county has no plan, and wants Carmel to suggest an approach to the city limits over county roads from the interchange.

Commissioner Hugh Smith yesterday afternoon urged the Carmel Planning Commission to consider traffic entries at the north end of the city. Commissioners then puzzled over three possible routes; first, the proposed route in the General Plan; second, a route from the interchange along Serra Avenue and Camino Del Monte to Junipero; third, an approach from the interchange along Camino Del Monte to Junipero. All the routes leave the interchange over the County road approach now in use at the north entrance to Carmel.

Each suggested approach means condemning property for widened rights-of-way, and, in the Pico Street route, condemning residential lots, to cut the street through the block to the County Road-Carpenter Street extension.

Planning commissioners puzzled over which route would demand the least condemnation. They thought about bringing traffic in over the Camino Del Monte route and out over the Serra route. They realized that with Junipero only a main thoroughfare as far as Eighth Street, as proposed in the General Plan, there was no planned egress to the south from Carmel to the State freeway. In 1955 the State freeway route, with the city's approval, was routed behind the High School from the Carpenter Street interchange, bypassing the present Highway One-Ocean Avenue exit from Carmel. The four-lane Junipero Street southern

Cowell, Carmelite In 1931, Was Experimenting In Tone Clusters Here

Henry Cowell—now famous American composer who formerly lived in Carmel. One of five current composers who have been at The American Symphony League Workshop at Asilomar for consultation and the rehearsing of some of their works. Cowell's Symphonies have been played by nearly all major American orchestras and one will be heard in Europe this season. The conference ended Saturday with an open performance for the public. (See Mary Lindsay-Oliver's account on Page 5 of other composers and conductors.)

Henry Cowell as a young boy was taught piano by Mrs. Carrington in Pacific Grove. Mary Lindsay-Oliver recalls:

"In the two-year period I lived here in 1931, he was being regarded as a local Carmel musician and appeared on the first of the Morning Musicales organized and presented by Mrs. Marie Gordon at La Ribera Hotel (now Cypress West). He also wrote some articles on modern music in the Daily Carmelite (later purchased and absorbed by the Pine Cone) which I took up in argument as music critic in that paper. He was experimenting then and Mrs. Henry Dickinson took me one evening to Dene Denny's home to hear him pluck strings on her grand piano and strike tone clusters across the keys.

"Later he went east and obtained a scholarship for his originality. The next time I talked with him was at a concert in San Francisco; later again in New York and in Washington, D. C., when one of his successful compositions was being played by the National Symphony Orchestra. Since then his name has become well known in the musical world and the Peninsula can claim another of its people to have become famous."

Jeffers Receives Report Of Medea At Bad Hersfeld

Bruno Adriani translated for the Pine Cone the following two letters sent from Germany to Carmel poet Robinson Jeffers. They describe the reception of his play Medea, translated into German by Eva Hesse, and produced recently in Bad Hersfeld.

Writer of the first letter is Rowohlt Verlaf of Hamburg, internationally known German publisher. The second is from Klaus Juncker one of the managers of the Verlaf publishing firm.

"It was an impressive evening that could not be spoiled even by a rainfall starting during the presentation and lasting for one and a half hours. The audience, fascinated, did not leave, and the actors continued to play, in wet costumes. The actress Hilde Krahl was revealed by her acting as one of the most impressive German stars; all other actors were integrated into a real ensemble. The director, Ulrich Freurth, mastered perfectly the pace and the technique; he had been at once enthusiastic, when I showed him your plays. A large part of the success has to be credited to him.

Irani Lad, Here To Attend High School, Has No Word From Parents, Thirty Miles From Iraq Revolution

BY RAYLYN PENNEY

New at Carmel High School this fall will be an 18-year-old husky, blonde senior with quite a story to tell.

He is Boris Sverlow, whose exodus from the deserts of the Near East to the United States in June was an event he had been awaiting most of his life.

A descendant of a White Russian family of St. Petersburg originally made stateless by the Bolshevik Revolution, Boris was born in Sultanabad, Iran.

His parents now live in the State of Kuwait, 30 miles from the Iraq border, and Boris has had no word from them since the start of the revolution.

His memories are of flat, arid wasteland and daily thermometer readings of up to 140 degrees. Until he came to Carmel, Boris had seen no trees but palms. And until he entered English classes July 1 at Pacific Grove summer school, he had received no formal schooling.

But he is adjusting to his strange new life faster than a chameleon on familiar foliage.

Looking at Boris, you could be easily convinced he is already the hard-working, hard-studying engineering student and sportsman he intends to become, starting at Carmel High and continuing

CARMEL MERCHANT NINE CONTINUES WINNING WAYS

Managers Paul Artellan and Don Sands have been getting plenty of mileage out of their Carmel Merchant softball club during the past week as the ambitious Merchanants set their sights on the Tri-County championship. With the little workhorse, Johnny DeAmaral, leading the way from the pitcher's mound, the Merchants disposed of the 19th Hole aggregation, 6 to 1, and shutout the good Marina Grocery club, 6 to 0. Another win in the rough tough PG tournament will get the local pastimers close to the finals.

The Merchant hitters gave DeAmaral a big cushion in the win over the 19th Hole as Jim Fisher and Jack Duckworth blasted home runs. Fisher picked a good time to blast his homer as the bases were populated with two Merchant runners. Jack McGaughey, slick-fielding first baseman, supplied the big stick power in the win over Marina, hitting safely in three of his four trips to the plate. Steady infield play by Nino Aiello and Walt Frey has sparked the Merchant defense in recent outings.

Little League

WILDER AND JONES SECOND HALF WINNERS

Jack Cate's Wilder & Jones Little League club won the second half title last Monday night by shelling Lew McCreery's Sport Shop gang, 14 to 3, as Mike Brasher tossed a two-hitter at the Sports. The stocky righthander had game control all the way after his mates gave him a five-run bulge in the first inning. By winning the first half title, Wilder & Jones wins the right to meet Boys' Town for the season championship. Boys' Town ran away with the first half championship but found the going rough in the second session as all the teams improved with hard practice sessions during the eight-week season.

In the big first inning against the Sport Shop, ten W&J swingers went to the plate to produce five runs on three free passes and four solid base hits. Tim Brattin started the big rally with a well-stroked double, Grant Pollock drew a base on balls, Greg Jones chipped in with a single, Danny Aldrich worked Howdy King for a free trip to first, and Jack Mahoney blasted a single with the bases loaded. Tim Brattin led all the hitters in the big win, stroking a double and two singles in five trips to the plate. Sport Shop got on the board in the second inning when Howdy King and Robin Smith drew walks and Mike Hull hit a single. Craig Harder garnered the only other hit given up by Brasher, looping a single into left field in the fourth frame.

The playoff between Wilder & Jones and Boys' Town is slated for next Monday night and the winner earns the right to play in the Area Tournament which is scheduled to take place later in the month.

CARMEL SWIM CLUB DUNKS WATSONVILLE AND MONTEREY

The Carmel Swim Club made it three straight wins for the current season during last week's swim activity by edging the Monterey natators, 184-171, and swamping the Watsonville Club, 180-150. The third victory was racked up in the initial meet of the season when the Carmel splashers took first place in the 20-30 Club 4th of July Meet at Pacific Grove. In the Monterey win, Mike Cook and Ann Giles picked up double wins, Mike getting the blue ribbons in the 50-yard butterfly and 200-yard medley and Ann touching first in the same two events for girls.

At Watsonville last Saturday morning, a fine all-around team effort gave Carmel the win as the big Carmel entry list came through with places in all the swimming events and swept the diving. Ronnie Jella and David Rosenkranz dominated the boys' diving events while Pam Petersen and Janis Meyenberg were tops in the girls' division.

Carmel point-makers at the Watsonville meet last Saturday were: Gary Aebersold, first in the 25 yard free style and first in the 25 yard backstroke; Jimmy Sweeney, second in the 25 yard freestyle and second in the 25 yard backstroke; Tina Miller, third in the 25 yard freestyle and second in the 25 yard breaststroke; Tim Petersen, third in the 25 yard freestyle, first in the 25 yard backstroke, and second in the 25 yard breaststroke; David Rosenkranz, first in the 50 yard freestyle and first in the 25 yard backstroke; Mary Pat Palmer, first in the 50 yard freestyle and first in the 25 yard butterfly; Susie Petersen, first in the 50 yard freestyle, third in the 50 yard breaststroke and second in the 50 yard butterfly; Bob Wells, first in the 50 yard butterfly and first in the 100 yard Individual Medley;

Mike Cook, first in the 50 yard backstroke, tied for first in the 50 yard butterfly and second in the 200 yard Invidiual Medley; Ronnie Jella, first in the 25 yard butterfly and third in the 25 yard backstroke; Lela Zils, first in the 25 yard backstroke; Pat Aldrich, third in the 25 yard backstroke and tied for third in the 25 yard breaststroke; Larry Thompson, first in the 25 yard breaststroke; Maynard Petersen, second in the 50 yard freestyle and second in the 25 yard butterfly; Pam Petersen, second in the 50 yard freestyle and first in the 50 yard backstroke; Pat Bein, first in the 50 yard backstroke and third in the 50 yard breaststroke; Lesley Strosnider, first in the 50 yard breaststroke and second in the 100 yard Individual Medley;

Dinny Craviotto, first in the 50 yard freestyle and first in the 50 yard backstroke; Janis Meyenberg, second in the 50 yard freestyle; Bert Blanks, first in the 50 yard breaststroke; Chris Dancy, third in the 50 yard freestyle; Bob Wakefield, second in the 50 yard breaststroke; Robin Strosnider, second in the 50 yard backstroke; Steve Halminsky, third in the 50 yard freestyle; Sandy Aebersold, first in the 25 yard backstroke, first in the 25 yard breaststroke and second in the 25 yard butterfly; Patty Oenning, tied for third in the 25 yard breaststroke; Jody Oenning, second in the 50 yard freestyle, second in the 25 yard backstroke and second in the 25 yard breaststroke; Lolly Chapman, third in the 25 yard freestyle; Mary Seaver, third in the 25 yard backstroke.

Next swimming action for the undefeated Carmel team is slated for this afternoon at the Carmel High pool. The fast-improving Pacific Grove swimmers will provide the opposition in a 4:00 o'clock meet.

HUNTER SAFETY COURSE

A Hunter Safety Course starts next week. All prospective hunters under the age of 16 must take the course to qualify for a state hunting license. Those planning to attend the classes should sign up this week at the Carmel Sport Shop.

New Biology Teacher And Five Others Hired By Board

The governing board of the Carmel Unified School District approved contracts for five more new teachers and an additional school nurse at its special meeting at 8:00 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Albert Duane Graham will fill the vacancy in the biology department at the high school occasioned by the resignation of Enid Larson, taking four sections in biology; Evelyn Sharp, who joined the Carmel High School staff last year, will teach the other four sections. John Westover continues in charge of physics and Dick Pritchard, chemistry.

Mr. Graham comes here from the University of California at Davis where he has been teaching botany. A graduate of Alameda High School, he attended Monterey Peninsula College from 1949 to 1951, the University of California and then Davis, where he received his master's in botany in 1955. He is 27 years old; six feet, two inches tall, weighs 180 pounds and is single. He has expressed interest in Carmel High School's unique natural area which is the pride of the biology department and commands the respect and approval of peninsula conservation and natural science groups.

Other teachers employed at yesterday morning's meeting: Ray Tumbo, 26, single, who received his bachelor's degree from the University of Oregon and is attending summer session at Berkeley, will teach social studies at the high school.

Joseph Lorincy, 37, single, who graduated from the University of Oregon in 1951, taught in Oregon high schools for several years, and received his master's in 1957, will teach high school mathematics. He is also attending summer session at Cal.

Mrs. Frances Bliven, a graduate of the University of Washington, who taught at Pribilof Islands, Alaska, 1933-34, comes here from Castro Valley, California, where she has been teaching since 1954, to take the third and fourth grades at Carmelo. She has three children; 16, 18 and 20 years old and is married to an attorney whose practice is in Salinas and Monterey.

Beatrice Black, who will teach sixth grade at Tularcitos, comes from Southern California. She received a high school credential in history at U.S.C. in 1939 but prefers to work with the junior high age group and has been teaching seventh and eighth grade in Los Angeles County Schools. At one period she taught in a school for exceptional children at Palm Beach, Florida.

The new nurse is Miss Ruth Thomsen from the public health staff of the Monterey County Health Department. She will be assigned to the valley schools but will also assist School Nurse Mrs. Mary Clayton.

Above is a reproduction of an abstract painting by Rip Matteson entitled Point Lobos from the Sea. Mr. Matteson, Dean of Instruction at the Monterey Peninsula College, who recently conducted the evening course there, Looking at Modern Painting, under the aegis of the University of California, did this painting especially for the unusual program to be presented at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre on Saturday at 3:30 o'clock. Centering around the presentation of two recorded symphonic poems by the late Bach Festival conductor, Gastone Usigli, it will be offered without charge as a tribute to the maestro who did so much to make Carmel a meaningful word in musical circles all over the United States and abroad.

The recordings played on hi-fi will be synchronized with 26 large color slides of oil paintings by 20 Carmel artists, further amplifying the shifting musical moods. Since last week there has been a change in one part of the program. Before the music starts, it has been decided to project the paintings on the screen, with artist identification, accompanying them with readings of descriptive lines by Big Sur's poet, Eric Barker, from his own works, and from those of Carmel's Robinson Jeffers. These lines will have been culled by Mrs. Philip Schneeberger, who also selected the paintings. Co-sponsoring the show is Mrs. Walter Jennings.

One of the symphonic poems is entitled Prometheus Unbound, and Eric Barker in his poem, Point Lobos Cypresses, has compared these trees-under-stress to the trials of Prometheus. The other side of the record, though entitled Humanitas provides such a salty, surging sound track for the sea that it will be coordinated with slides of marine paintings. The style of these canvasses, following the wide ranging style of the music, will vary from the representational to the abstract-expressionist.

The color transparencies for this Arts in Triple Harness venture were made by Wynn Bullock, internationally known photographer of the Monterey Peninsula. On the west wall of the theatre will hang seven photographs of Lobos seas and trees from one of Mr. Bullock's shows now hanging in South Africa which is about to go on tour behind the Iron Curtain, under the auspices of the Art Center of Czechoslovakia.

After Mr. Usigli's death, a fund was set up by his many friends and admirers in the San Francisco Bay Area and Carmel for the purpose of having his compositions recorded. This one, performed by the Wiener Konzert Vereinigung in Vienna under Charles Adler, is the first to appear. Although the record is not for sale, a $5.00 contribution to the fund entitles you to one. They are being handled exclusively by the Browse Around Music Shop, and as the fund grows, more recordings of Usigli works will be made.

Paintings gathered from local galleries and studios that seemed to the gatherer to be particularly Usigli Seas and Trees are by Joe Ataide, Leo Blaico, Doris Baker, Don Bloom, Louise Cardeiro Boyer, Jane Buffington, Sam Colburn, Marjorie Doolittle, Eugene Elmore, Elwood Graham, Sam Harris, Richard Lofton, Rip Matteson, Al Need, Zita Laky, Doris Rohr, Marlinde von Ruhs, S. C. Yuan, and Abel Warshawsky.

Bach Festival Reviews . . .

By Mary-Lindsay Oliver

The 21st Carmel Bach Festival was again heralded by the historic custom of Bach Chorales played by a brass choir from the window of the Sunset Auditorium by Irving Bush, Edward Haug, Richard Dunn, Joseph Axup and Edward Freudenburg to the joy of a large crowd of public listeners, who, in any case, could not have obtained festival tickets in the sold out house but who could hear in the melodic strains some sense of the beauty of Bach's music and his dedication of it "to the glory of God".

It took a hundred years after his death for his work to receive any wide recognition, but today Bach's music is more and more influencing the serious composer seeking fundamental procedures of harmonic construction, and the layman can listen without strain to logical melody and counterpoint, as also to most composers of the Baroque period. On the stage picked vocal and orchestral choirs assembled for the entrance of Conductor Sandor Salgo who was warmly welcomed. He lifted his baton on the Sacred Cantata No. 4, Christ lag in Todesbanden (Christ lay in the bonds of death) which proceeds into a Hallelujah for risen life, set to a text by Martin Luther who inspired Bach many times. The joyous Hallelujah is echoed after all the verses, thus making the Easter acclaim.

Nancy Foster, soprano, Cora Burt Lauridsen, contralto, Leonard Weeks, tenor, and Tom Paul, bass, all sang with feeling and vocal distinction the solo parts, backed by the well trained chorale group that responded perfectly to Salgo's imperative beat, while a continuo was added by Ralph Linsley at the harpsichord, Jean Fulkerson, cellist, and Suzanne Ailmann, contrabass.

This impressive work was followed by a Concerto in D minor for harpsichord and the orchestra which became enlarged as soon as the long, green harpsichord belonging to gifted Alice Ehlers had been placed. Miss Ehlers' famous art on this old instrument is familiar to many of us in previous festivals and recitals, and she added luster to her reputation with her spirited playing of the concerto supposed to have been transcribed by Bach from a lost violin one. Its three movements delighted the audience who burst into enthusiastic applause to recall soloist and conductor. We like the way Salgo indicates all the players for recognition before taking it himself though well aware his strong art brings out the best in others, and Ehlers graciously acknowledged the concert-master Rosemary Waller.

The second half of the program was given to the D major Magnificat and we have never heard it so brilliantly performed. Its exuberant praise was carried out by the full festival chorus with such strength and precision that it was electrifying. Particular mention can be made of the sonorous men's section in the chorus "As He spake to our forefathers". Marie Gibson in the soprano part was telling and clear, also Cora Lauridsen contralto; Margory McKay, mezzo-soprano; James Schwabacher, teno, and Merwyn Dant, bass. The flute sounds came from Sheridon Stokes and Paula Robinson, the oboe d' Amour from Raymond Duste, with harpsichordist Ralph Linsley and Suzanne Ailmann, contrabass, in the continuo. Recalled were all the artists in demonstrative applause finally bringing Dene Denny with them in just recognition as creator of Carmel's now famous Bach Festival.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

At the Wayfarer Church Ludwig Altmann gave his first Organ Recital. His fame as an organist is great and his contribution to the Festival has been of many years' standing; yet at every new hearing one is surprised how his clever manipulation makes a comparatively small organ seem like an immense one in sound and variety. He started with a Bach Fugue and Fantasy in C minor, followed by Three Chorale Preludes, that scintillated with iridescent colors throughout, followed by the Handel Concerto in A major with four contrasting movements in which the Adagio was particularly sympathetic and appealing. Since Handel played his concertos during oratorio intermissions, audiences in his day must never have ceased to listen!

"Wir mussen durch vie Trubsal" for chorus, strings and organ from [illegible] musicians from the Festival Chorale and Orchestra, conducted by Sandor Salgo. Voices and instruments blended into an impressive Sinfonia. Altman's speed and clarity in the cadenza was startling and his whole performance a thing of beauty and inspiration. A second organ recital takes place on today.

TUESDAY EVENING

Bach, Monteverdi and Haydn filled the evening's program at Sunset Auditorium, preluded again by the brass quartet in chorales which drew another crowd to listen. A Concerto in D minor for two violins and orchestra, played by concert-master Rosemary McNamee Waller and Barbara Brown gave equal opportunity for a virtuoso performance by these two interesting members of the orchestra which they fulfilled in a manner that brought enthusiastic applause. Then the Bach Concerto in C minor for two harpsicords and orchestra brought back Alice Ehlers and Ralph Linsley to the stage, where their brilliant performance, together with the orchestra's, earned them great acclaim. General interest in the instruments was enhanced because many were able to see the hands working on the double keyboard. Removal of the harpsichords then made room for soloists, chorus and orchestra in Monteverdi's Vespro della Beata Vergine which will certainly be remembered as one of the most impressive productions of the Festival. The old Baroque method of putting soloists and choirs in different places was carried out. A group was therefore off stage, where lighting emphasized their presence and their white robes gave them the appearance of angels. Soprano Marie Gibson sympathetically sang the "Sancta Maria, ora pro nobis" and Margery MacKay, mezzo-soprano, appeared as a lone figure off-stage against the tall pine background at the side. Her fine modulation carried out the exquisite and appealing import of the part. Tom Paul's good bass was delivered from the group on the other side. The whole work was conducted with great insight in the quiet manner of Salgo that seems to draw every effect he wishes from the musicians without undue physical motion, yet rises to emphasis and ecstatic heights when necessary. Such is the essence of fine conducting which was continued in the presentation of the Haydn "London" Symphony. It was easy to realize how this work had gripped the interest of the English who in those days were ahead of other nations with their orchestras and huge musical performances. So Haydn was happy in London! Salgo brought out in clear phrasing, rhythmic contours and perfect modulations all the movements which, in the final Allegro had an arresting breakoff, done with exactness that only the best players can accomplish. Enthusiasm was so great from the audience that Salgo added, as encore, an Air from a Bach Suite with a melody so deeply appealing it left one speechless, and showed up more than ever the dearth in composition of melody today. Another reception by Miss Denny and Dr. Salgo took place at the Woman's Club in which James Schwabacher and Raymond Duste and others put on musical skits, including arias, quite an antithesis to the Bach melody which nevertheless remains in one's memory and will fortunately be heard again on this evening's program.

(Reviews of the remaining performances the Bech Festival will be in next week's Pine Cone).

Water District Petitions Are In Circulation

Petitions are circulating on the Monterey Peninsula, including Carmel, asking the county board of supervisors to place a measure on the November ballot: "Shall the proposition to organize the Monterey Peninsula Water District under the Municipal Water District Act of 1911, as amended, be adopted?"

The petitions have not originated from the water district committee, made up of representatives from the peninsula city councils, but from individuals, some of them members of the committee acting as private citizens.

Mayor John Chitwood has stated publicly that he feels the action is premature since there is not enough information yet available.

Stone and Youngberg, a survey firm in San Francisco, have made a preliminary study which they frankly state is based on assumptions. Ed Couzens, county engineer, asked by the committee to pass an opinion on the Stone and Youngberg report stated this week: "The difference in the amount of income should allow the proposed district to operate at a lower cost expense provided that other figures submitted in the report can be sustained." He added, "It's my opinion that this preliminary report covers the proposed project thoroughly but the final decision may best be made after the proposed engineering and valuation studies are completed."

Councilman Gunnar Norberg expressed the opinion that there should be careful study of the proposal before it was put on the ballot and nothing was to be gained by hasty action.

New Compositions Played In Last Week A.S.O.L. Workshop

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The American Symphony Orchestra League's busy two weeks at Asilomar concluded Saturday evening with a program open to the public on balcony and stage of Merrill Hall. Now five years in operation, the League is the only organization of its kind in the world and demonstrates the advance made in America of symphonic music by composers, conductors and playing personnel. With personnel from 55 symphony orchestras throughout the country, from Canada and even Austria, to which can be added players for the Bach Festival, from 36 orchestras, plus the soloists and chorus-singer visitors, we have had in our area a unique and immense representation of musicians, all within three weeks. It establishes great prestige and importance to music on the Peninsula.

Last week included presentation of several new works by American composers Walter Aschaffenburg and Willingford Riegger, both of New York, also Peter Phillips and Ernest Krenek, which were heard Wednesday and Thursday under batons of six conductors.

The Krenek Suite for Flute and Clarinet with strings brought forth two good soloists from the orchestra, Patricia Gateside, flutist, and Norman Mason, clarinetist, artistically conducted by Dr. Erno Daniel, assistant to Dr. Lert. I did not hear the Riegger Festival Overture and Dance Rhythms under Gregory Millar, but Riegger is a familiar composer on major orchestral programs. Cowell and Burt were reviewed last week.

Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms, Debussy and Strauss filled the climaxing performances, with four outstanding conductors, among whom Gregory Millar received strong applause for his rendering of part of the Brahms' No. I Symphony. After the final conducting of the Strauss Rosenkavalier by Richard Lert, all stood up in homage to this famous master, from whom so many conductors in America and Europe want advice in his kind and authorative manner. It was then a matter of saying goodbyes with anticipation for next summer's meeting. It is even hoped by Mrs. Helen Thompson, the clever executive secretary, that eventually the Peninsula may become the headquarters of the League, with its membership of over 800 representative orchestras, musical individuals and critics. There will be another workshop at Pittsburgh in November. John S. Edwards, manager of the Pittsburg Symphony, is current president of the League.

Midshipman Richard W. Holt, son of Mrs. Estella Holt, stands an engineroom watch aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain on a two months training cruise to Northern Europe. He will return with the ship to Norfolk, Virginia, on August 6 after visiting Spain, Denmark and Edinburgh. Dick entered the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis last summer.

Captain George Luker, son-in-law of Mrs. Charles Stewart of Carmel, commands the Champlain. His wife, Margaret, and son, Ned, are spending the summer here with Mrs. Stewart while Captain Luker is in European waters with his ship.

8 and Run Adds Sunday To Week End Schedule

8 and Run, the original musical revue playing in Carmel at The Studio Theatre, has received such a good reception that the management has now added Sunday night performances to the Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays for which the show was originally scheduled.

The small intimate theatre on Dolores Street holds only a limited number of patrons. And the small proscenium arch stage just holds the eight lively performers who are the "8" mentioned in the title. But now that the show is playing on Sunday night, the young singer-dancer actors will play their hearts out at an extra performance making it four times a week.

The Tuesday afternoon Town House Painting Class under the direction of Miss Donna F. Davis.

Other activities at Town House listed in Carmel Foundation's 1958 report just published are: Monday morning French, Spanish, and German Conversation Classes; Tuesday monthly teas opening one-man art exhibits by members; Wednesday morning class in peasant embroidery, smocking, and weaving; Wednesday afternoon general meetings followed by tea; Thursday and Friday afternoon chess, scrabble, and card groups; monthly meetings of The Booklovers; and assorted craft groups depending upon the interests of members and the voluntary leadership available.

The Carmel Foundation Annual Report also explains the services offered. According to Mrs. Ruth Sarett, executive director, the greatest increase in need during the past year has been in the field of home service, which so often makes it possible for an older person to stay in his own home and maintain his independence in spite of some temporary crisis in health, family complication, financial or emotional stress.

Captain Archer M. R. Allen, president of Carmel Foundation, which was founded and incorporated in 1951 to serve the old people of the community, reports that to continue to carry out the activities and services for our senior citizens it will be necessary to raise $12,000 during this year's annual drive to cover the maintenance of Town House, the salaries of the Director and a part time assistant, and Home Service. Since Carmel Foundation has no supporting endowment, it depends upon the annual membership donations, on special gifts from individuals and organizations, and on bequests to fulfill its community service.

The brochure report, entitled Adventure In Friendliness will be sent to anyone interested. Everyone is invited to visit Town House at any time, to attend any of its functions, or to talk with Mrs. Sarett. Call MA 4-4666 or write Carmel Foundation, Box 3424, Carmel.

Town House is on Lincoln Street just south of Eighth and is open from 10:00 to 5:00 o'clock Monday through Friday. On August 5 there will be a special open house for the community at the time of the opening of the Sixth Anniversary Art Exhibit.

Kyrk Reid Wins Wayfarer Scholarship

Kyrk Reid, who enters his junior year at Stanford University in the fall, has been awarded a $500 scholarship according to an announcement made by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray on behalf of an anonymous scholarship selection committee for the Church of the Wayfarer.

Qualifications for the award are that the winner shall be a member of or associated with the Church of the Wayfarer and a demonstrated Christian in his or her living; be a non-smoker and non-drinker; be possessed of genuine intellectual integrity and intellectual courage; have a demonstrated capacity for creative thinking and have completed at least two years of college or university with a superior record.

Kyrk is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Reid. He was an honor graduate of Carmel High School, president of the student body and an outstanding athlete. He was also president of the Church of the Wayfarer's high school age group, the C-Bees, during his senior year at Carmel High.

At Stanford he is an engineering major, and last year was a place kicker on the Stanford football team.

Extra Performance Scheduled Tonight For Players Circle

Overflow audiences at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre for the past few weeks have prompted the management to schedule an extra performance for tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

The play from which so many Carmel residents and holiday visitors have been turned away at the door is The Reluctant Debutante, a witty satire on London society. It was written by William Douglas Home and features Gertrude Chappell, Sylvia Kightly and Bob Kaller in the cast.

CO. BOARD ELECTS OFFICERS

You're likely to see earth-boring machines like this one in action almost anywhere today. They're digging holes for new telephone poles. It takes only five or ten minutes to dig a hole, thanks to machines like this. Then power drills and pole-setting rigs help us put the poles in their places. With all these time savers, a two-man crew can usually put up about 15 poles in one day. You'll find phone people using the newest and fastest methods on all kinds of jobs. That means we can do a better, more efficient job for you.

During a tour of the telephone company's facilities in Monterey, a group of Girl Scouts is shown gathered around Betty White, our chief operator, who is explaining the job of the long distance operators. The employees of the telephone company enjoy showing you the scenes behind your telephone that make it operate.

Altman Showed Why Bach Was Third Choice In Leipzig

In 1722 the City Council of the city of Leipzig in Germany had to choose a new cantor for the Thomasschule. The scholars of the Thomasschule, under the direction of the cantor, had to supply the music for the churches of the city, in which elaborate services were sung every Sunday. In addition to this requirement the cantor had a somewhat official relation to the university of Leipzig and the college of music. Other chores, less august, were included, such as teaching grammar to small boys in the school.

The services of the churches of Leipzig were at that time quite archaic. Much of the liturgy was still sung in Latin and some of the congregational singing was done without instrumental accompaniment. Some of the Sunday services lasted as long as four hours. It was the hope of the city fathers to find a man who would reform some of the old-fashioned features of the church music. This might explain why they looked with dubious eyes upon the candidacy of the well known organist and exponent of counterpoint, Johann Sebastian Bach.

Three possible candidates were selected, Georg Telemann, first. Christoph Graupner was the second choice when Telemann could not accept the position. When Graupner also refused the appointment, the city fathers sadly reported, "Since the best man could not be obtained, a mediocre one would have to be accepted."

In his Thursday afternoon organ recital Ludwig Altman played compositions from these two composers, considered far above Bach by the Leipzig city fathers, as well as compositions by Bach.

Mr. Altman wrote: "This recital tried to recreate the conditions and problems, if not the actual programs, facing Dr. Lange, Mayor of Leipzig, and his councillors when they had to choose a successor to the late Kuhnau. Musical history has roundly scolded the worthy burghers for their preference of Telemann and Graupner over Bach. Yet in hearing Bach in juxtaposition with Telemann's colorful craftsmanship and Graupner's instantly appealing charm, we will at once gain the true measure of Bach's towering greatness, as well as a tolerant understanding of Leipzig's underrating of Bach as a composer."

CARMEL WOMAN'S CLUB HOLD LUNCHEON MONDAY

A pot luck luncheon on Monday at noon with a bridge party to follow will be the first summer gathering for members and guests of the Carmel Woman's Club.

The afternoon's entertainment will be in charge of Mrs. Samuel B. Moore. The assisting committee will be Mrs. Phil Preble, Mrs. Russell Bradford, Mrs. Ella Harris, Mrs. C. U. Fonteneau, Mrs. Ian Belangee, Mrs. D. L. Staniford and Mrs. E. M. Becker.

Members are requested to bring donations for the rummage sale that day or to leave them in the garden of the club house at any time. They are also reminded to start as many cuttings as possible for the plant sale.

Col. Ellis E. Pickering Flew To Iran Tuesday

On Tuesday Colonel Ellis E. Pickering flew from New York to Teheran, Iran, with stops in Paris and Beirut, Lebanon. An engineer, he will spend the next year in the northern part of Iran as the only United States Army officer supervising building of a 30,000-man Iranian Army cantonment. Construction was begun a year ago and all bricks made for the buildings are handmade on the job by Iranian labor. Other materials are flown to the site.

Mrs. Pickering and nine-year-old James and five-year-old Celeste will live in Carmel while Colonel Pickering is away.

"This is my fourth tour here," says Mrs. Pickering. She first lived in Carmel as a bride when her husband was stationed at Fort Ord in 1941. After moving about the United States with Colonel Pickering she returned for the rest of the war years when he was sent to North Africa. Her third "tour" here was when her husband was serving in Korea. While Colonel Pickering was flying to Iran, Mrs. Pickering was settling her just arrived belongings in the home she is occupying on Lobos Street between First and Second Avenues.

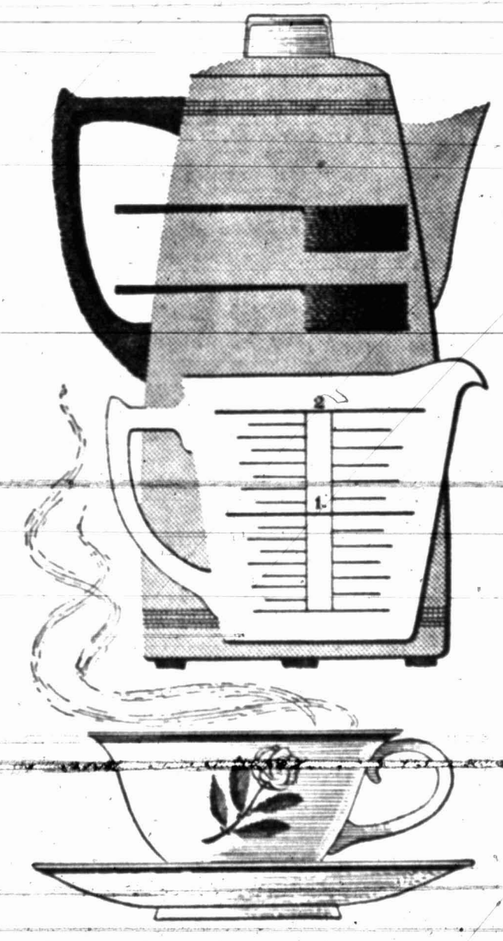
How to do it better with WATER



WHEN YOU MAKE YOUR FAVORITE BEVERAGE

Remember these simple rules and you'll hear those treasured words, "Now there's a cup of good coffee."

1. Always wash your coffee maker thoroughly with hot water and rinse with hot water.
2. Use fresh, cold water.
3. Use 3/4 measuring cup (6 fl. ozs.) of water to two level measuring tablespoons of fresh coffee.
4. Never let the coffee boil.
5. Use full capacity of your coffee maker. Never brew less than 3/4 capacity.
6. Serve as soon as possible after brewing.

SUMMER TIP FOR REFRESHMENT*
COFFEE—the ICE-CUBE WAY:
Brew extra breakfast coffee and freeze into coffee ice-cubes. Then make iced coffee any time by pouring regular-strength hot coffee over the cubes.

The First Theatre Still Alight, Thanks To Dene Denny

By Carolyn Elstob

Tatters, the Pet of Squatters' Gulch, playing week ends at the First Theatre in Monterey is the 101st production in the historic playhouse of The Troupers of the Gold Coast, under the Denny-Watrous Management.

A State monument, The First Theatre was entrusted, by concession, to Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous of Carmel, to produce early American, authentic melodramas in traditional style. Already up to their eyes in the financial responsibilities of the Bach Festival, founded in 1935, these two young women, dedicated to entertainment in its finest sense, plunged into the old neglected building, into piles of play manuscripts from all parts of the country. The Monterey History and Art Association offered the helping hand. Authentic costumes came out of attics and old leather-bound trunks. Carmelites were delighted, and Tatters, the Pet of Squatters' Gulch had its premiere June 3, 1937. The audience hissed the villain, called frantically for the hero at the crucial moments, and loved the beautiful Tatters. At intermission they drank soda pop in the saloon-lobby and bought peanuts. Back in their spaces on the wooden benches they all sang lustily and applauded the "vaud'-ville".

On July 4, 1958, there were new actors on the stage to be sure, new faces in the audience, but the play and the fun, the hisses, the excitement, and the applause were a happy tale retold.

In 21 years the Show Tonight sign has appeared every week-end by the door of the little old First Theatre without break. The plays, of the wooly west, of the Bowery, of frontier days . . . tear jerkers, roaring comedies, breathtaking mysteries.

The casts at the First Theatre are entirely local. The roster of stars through two decades includes personalities not only of local fame but of national theatrical repute, professionals, vacationing on the Peninsula or come to live here.

There are the working veterans who are celebrating this centennial production summer — Rhoda Johnson whose wardrobe of costumes has through the years maintained a standard of period authenticity, delightful freshness and eye appeal. Kay Knudsen, house electrician, produces deathly glows for the dying villain, rose auras for true love's triumphant moment, and lights ablaze for the chorus.

And there is Madeleine Hicks, character actress of The Troupers of the Gold Coast for two decades. Madeleine has never missed a performance or a cue, has never fumbled a laugh, nor failed to win groans in the stricken mother scenes. Gesturing or jigging, the loving Ma or bedizened Madame, Madeleine Hicks is on with the show. She is indispensable.

There are others of course, whose years as Troupers are "adding up". Susan Lee at the piano is the one-man orchestra.

It doesn't take 21 years or 101 productions to prove a point. Should you be seeking an evening of fun and entertainment you will find it at The First Theatre.

WHITTAKER VIEWS HIT PINE

Francis Whitaker, sufficiently recovered from recent back surgery to drive downtown this week, was unhappy when he viewed effects of a direct hit on the second Junipero Street pine tree. This is the first time this tree has suffered a blow from an automobile. The tree seems fine but the scaffolding protecting it was askew. The first tree was removed after repeated automobile buffetings.

Mr. Whitaker is particularly interested in the pine. Planting of a center strip on Junipero was one of his pet projects when he was a city council member. The tree stands in a circular rock island at the intersection of Sixth Avenue.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

The latest Jalna book is out and it is entitled Centenary at Julna. For the countless numbers of us who love these books and eagerly await a new one, this is great news. Another popular and prolific author is Bruce Lancaster, whose list of historical fiction includes Roll Shenandoah, The Secret Road, and Trumpet to Arms. He has a new one called Night March. In all, there are ten new novels this week.

Herself a character, Nancy Mitford writes engagingly about other characters. According to Evelyn Waugh, Nancy Mitford received no education except in French and horsemanship. She has been a reader and has been writing most of her life, evolving her own particular style which is light and readable. Her latest book is called Voltaire in Love. This is the story of Voltaire and his long love affair with a famous scientist of his day, the Marquise du Chatelet, known as the divine Emilie. Here is the Court at Versailles, with its fads and fancies, its Kings, mistresses and ministers. This is a light and entertaining book, yet the research has been painstakingly done, and it paints a lively picture of the court, the times, and of Voltaire himself.

At this time, when we are trying to understand just what makes the Russians the way they are, we have a new book about an old trip taken in 1929 through the Caucasus mountains in the south of Russia. At that time, Negley Farson was a foreign correspondent for the Chicago Daily News. With his friend Alexander Wicksteed, he went on what was intended to be a pleasure hike through the Caucasus. The two endured torrential rains, violent hailstorms, impassable mountain trails, and impossible cooking. At that time Soviet Communism was just beginning to be felt in the region. Now in a world of remembering, Negley Farson tells of the trip, of his friend Wicksteed, and of the rugged people they met. The book is called The Lost World of the Caucasus.

Those of you who would be bored hearing about a history of art should skip this paragraph, because this next book is A History of World Art by three professors of fine arts at Columbia University. Their names are Upjohn, Wingert, and Mahler. This is an enlarged and revised edition of an earlier work and here have been many additions and improvements. It is thick and authoritative. It begins with paintings on the walls of pre-historic caves and continues until it discusses Salvador Dali, and present day art. The illustrations are integrated with the text. The index seems excellent. Many of the illustrations are in full color. Remember this when you need it.

And speaking of art, Davis Duncan's The Private World of Pablo Picasso is included in this week's collection. Picasso and his family, eating, working, clowning, all in pictures.

Carmen Ruiz, dancer, who with guitarist Mariano Cordoba, will be be presented by Grace Rosenthal, in a concert of Flamenco music and dance at Sunset Auditorium, July 26 at 8:15 o'clock.

Born in San Francisco of Mexican parents Carmen Ruiz began her studies of dance at an early age.

Desirous of perfecting herself in the art of Flamenco dancing, she went to Mexico City and studied several years with Tarriba the most famous teacher of Spanish Dancing in Mexico. She became Tarriba's protege and toured with Tarriba's Company in Mexico with tremendous success.

She was then contracted by Antonio in Spain with whom she appeared in London, Paris, Brussels and with his Spanish Ballet Company toured all over Europe, South America and North America for the last four years.

While in Spain she studied with dean of Flamenco dance El Estampio (Juan Sanchez), Antonio de Cordoba, Rafael Cruz and others.

She has once more settled in San Francisco where she has recently given two successful concerts and is contracted for several more.

BACH USED ONE TUNE IN FIFTY HARMONIZATIONS

The Passion Chorale, as it is generally known, is a sixteenth century tune which Bach borrowed and used repeatedly. About fifty different harmonizations of this tune are known to exist in Bach's compositions. He used it repeatedly in the Saint Matthew Passion, each time setting the tune in a more sombre key with poignant harmonizations. O Sacred Head, Now Wounded and When Life Begins to Fail Me are two of the many hymns or chorales set to the tune. O Sacred Head, Now Wounded from the Saint Matthew Passion will be interpolated in the performance of the Saint John Passion at 2:30 and 8:30 o'clock, Sunday, July 20.

Suverkrups Retire Here

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Suverkrup move on Wednesday into the apartment they have rented on Lincoln Street near Seventh Avenue, after a month's search for a permanent home in Carmel. They came here from Glenbrook, Nevada, on the shore of Lake Tahoe. Mr. Suverkrup is a retired United Press correspondent and former newspaper owner and publisher. During his 25 years with UP he lived in Pennsylvania, Indiana, Idaho, New Mexico, California and Nevada. He published newspapers in Pocatello, Idaho; Hollister, California; Carson City and Gardnersville, Nevada.

Before coming to Carmel he sold the Gardnersville Record-Courier of which his son John was editor, and is still editor until a replacement can be found.

Expected here to visit the Suverkrups next month is their daughter, Maryjo Carlson, who is assistant editor of the Annals of the Pan-American Union in Washington, D.C.

"And both the children said they would have nothing to do with newspapers, after seeing us work in this field," says Mrs. Suverkrup, who has variously been society editor, bookkeeper and "fill in" on the staff of her husband's papers.

Hudson and Thompson Holiday

"From one Board of Supervisors' meeting to the next" was the time limit set for the Fallen Leaf Lake holiday enjoyed last week by the Thomson Hudson and Milton Thompson families. They returned on Sunday so that Supervisor Hudson could be present for county budget consideration on Monday and left after the previous week's supervisors' meeting.

The Hudsons and Thompsons and the three children in each family occupied the lakeside home of Mr. Hudson's aunt, Mrs. James O'Brett, and the Thompsons took along a power boat, "and we all waterskiied", reports Mrs. Hudson.

New York Artists With Williams

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buehr of Noroton, Connecticut, are in Carmel visiting Henry and Mona Williams and Dan and Natalie Conway. Mrs. Buehr, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Conway are sisters.

The Buehrs, both artists, commute each day from their suburban home to work in their New York studio. Walter Buehr has written and illustrated 14 educational books for children on subjects ranging from medieval life to the fishing industry. Mrs. Buehr (Camilla Goodwin) is a free lance fashion artist.

This week the Buehrs' hostess, Mona Williams, learned that her latest book, The Marriage, is to be published in Sweden. Arrangements for the British publication of the novel were made during her visit to England last fall. The Marriage was released in this country in January.

Nancy Returns For Bach

Mrs. Harry Plett (Nancy Page) is in Carmel for two weeks playing a bass viol in the Bach Festival Orchestra. Her husband is a dentist in Millbrae and their home is in San Mateo. Nancy is the daughter of Captain and Mrs. Gerald E. Page of San Bernardino. Her father was formerly head of the California State Highway Patrol for Monterey County. She is a graduate of Carmel High School and during her school years was a member of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra.

Parties After Bach Concerts

Bach Festival Conductor Sandor Salgo, Festival soloists, orchestra members and those assisting in the production of Carmel's twenty-first annual Bach Festival have been honored at receptions after each evening Festival performance this week.

The after concert parties began on Monday evening with the Musical Art Club reception at the Carmel Art Gallery. On Tuesday evening Miss Dene Denny and Conductor and Mrs. Salgo entertained festival performers and friends at a reception in the Carmel Woman's Club. Wednesday evening Dr. and Mrs. Walter Lehmann invited principal Festival musicians to their home for a supper party preceding and after the evening's rehearsal. A party will be given this evening for principal Festival musicians after the concert by Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wurzmann. Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bissantz are inviting Festival performers and friends to their home after the performance. Saturday night Mrs. Philip Schneeberger and Mrs. Tanya Treutle will be hostesses at a similar event at Mrs. Treutle's home. This party was planned two weeks ago when Mrs. Treutle met Festival pianist Maxim Shapiro at a concert in Paris and Mr. Shapiro agreed to be her guest after an evening concert here. This is the tenth time that Maxim Shapiro has come to Carmel to play in the Bach Festival. Yesterday Mrs. A. M. Allan invited Bach Festival personnel to a luncheon party.

John Langdon Here

A visitor to Carmel last week was John Langdon, the writer, whose first trip here in his early youth was a pilgrimage for the purpose of looking with proper reverence upon the outside of Robinson Jeffers' stone house. This time he was celebrating the publication by Macmillan of his second novel, S. S. Silverspray, and the new reprint by Pyramid of his first novel, The Vicious Circuit, (also Macmillan), under the title of A Night in Manila.

Mr. Langdon's short stories have appeared in Story Magazine, Blue Book, and Virginia Quarterly, as well as in Paris Review which awarded him a prize for The Blue Serge Suit. This story was dramatized for the United States Steel Hour (TV) under the title of A Matter of Pride. His work has appeared in five anthologies besides the O. Henry collection and also Martha Foley's best short stories for 1957.

S. S. Silverspray has been receiving good reviews throughout the country for its depiction of life aboard ship during a hurricane, with unusually moving characterizations of the captain and crew members as revealed in their overcoming of difficulties. Especially for one scene is the author repeatedly lauded: a tense moment in the Captain's cabin after the eye of the hurricane has been passed, when uncontrolled feeling develops into motivation on which the story hangs. It is said that seldom in modern literature has there been a more masterly intermixture of events with the inner springs which breed fear and hate.

Mr. Langdon has recently returned from Mexico and is making his home in Sonoma with his wife and four children.

Sarah Murphy Went Home Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Murphy took their daughter, Sarah, home to Slate's Hot Springs on Sunday. She was born on July 9 at the Peninsula Community Hospital with a birth weight of seven pounds. Sarah has a brother, John, one year old, and a stepsister, Jill, six, and a stepbrother, David, four. Her father is a writer. His recently published book The Sergeant hit national best-seller lists.

Sarah's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy of Salinas and Mrs. Kay Short of Big Sur. Her great-grandmothers are Mrs. Katherine P. Gorringe of Carmel and Mrs. H. C. Murphy of Salinas.

Visit General and Mrs. Sebree

Colonel and Mrs. Mark F. Brennan and their sons, Mark and Paul, arrived in Carmel on Tuesday to spend the rest of the month as guests of Mrs. Brennan's parents, Major General and Mrs. E. B. Sebree.

Last Friday Colonel Brennan relinquished command of the 1st Battle Group, 3rd Infantry (The Old Guard) in a review at Fort Myer, Virginia. After his Carmel visit he will return to Fort Myer to become Assistant Chief of Staff for Logistics of the U. S. Army's Military District of Washington.

General and Mrs. Sebree have been Carmel residents for a year. They came here after General Sebree retired from Army service in Fort Monroe, Virginia, where he was Chief of Staff of the Continental Army Command.

MPVS Plans Country Carnival

Plans for the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services' Country Carnival to be held on September 26 at the Rancho del Monte were given priority at the regular MPVS meeting held last Friday at the USO. Mrs. Arthur Dresser, co-chairman with Miss Peg Bowen for this event, reported on the variety of special events planned and announced the following chairmen: Mrs. Gilbert Campbell, fashion show; Mrs. Robert Stanton, decorations, with Mrs. Glenrose Bell Jaffe coordinating booth decorations with the general carnival theme; Mrs. Ray Page, buffet supper; Mrs. Walter Neilsen, admission tickets; Mrs. Peyton Cunningham, tea service; Mrs. Thurman Bane, properties; Miss Margaret Prosser, publicity; Mrs. G. W. C. Whiting, printing of posters and tickets.

In addition, booths offering various wares and services will be in charge of Mrs. George Dunbaugh, auction of donated articles; Mrs. Archer Allen, "green thumb" cuttings and plants; Mrs. Cornelia Reed, parcel post packages, many from foreign lands; Mrs. Mildred Aldous, sketches by local artists; Mrs. E. C. Cronwall, foodstuffs; Mrs. Roland Scheffler, games of skill; Mrs. Charles Ransom, new gifts; and Mrs. Dorothy Bell, old gifts. Mrs. Rudolph ver Mehr and her assistants will carry trays of cokes and candies; dancing will be charge of the two carnival chairmen.

Mrs. Boyd Mewborn, thrift shop chairman, reported net profits for the month of June as $1,084.—the first time the $1,000 mark has been passed. She paid tribute to the faithful services of Carmel's Little League in collecting clothing and merchandise from families and friends to sell at the shop.

New members introduced were: Mrs. Sonia P. Brown, Mrs. Allman J. Cock, Mrs. John Maice Creighton and Miss Frances Harrison.

Cynthia Ruth Born Today

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodward's first child, Cynthia Ruth, was born this morning at 3:23 o'clock in the Peninsula Community Hospital. She weighed eight pounds, six and a half ounces. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Woodward of Monterey and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Drake of Seaside. Cynthia is a Pine Cone baby as her Grandfather Woodward operates the linotype and her father and mother and both her grandmothers are members of the bindery staff. Cynthia's birth increases the Pine Cone Staff Grandparents' Club to six members.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How spiritual understanding of God as eternal Life brings health and healing will be explained in Christian Science services Sunday.

Bible selections in the Lesson-Sermon on "Life" include the account in John of Christ Jesus' healing of the nobleman's son.

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy declares: "Jesus never asked if disease were acute or chronic, and he never recommended attention to laws of health, never gave drugs, never prayed to know if God were willing that a man should live. He understood man, whose Life is God, to be immortal, and knew that man has not two lives, one to be destroyed and the other to be made indestructible" (369:16).

The Golden Text is from John (17:3): "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

Shop Addition Is Now Two Buildings At The High School

The school trustees, at their meeting Wednesday morning, agreed to change of plans for an addition to the high school shop which has now become a separate building, because of state fire code requirements.

Principal Warren Edwards said two buildings would be better from an instructional point of view. The metal work equipment will go in the new building, which should get under construction in September, with completion planned for February. The old shop will be used for woodworking, and the metal working classes will be expanded as new equipment is added. There will be a classroom and storage space in addition to the forge and welding area.

Grading and excavation for foundations are completed for eleven new classrooms, science laboratory and toilet facility at the high school, and cement pouring will begin next week. Clark and Clark of Watsonville are in charge of this phase of the job. General contractor is Lloyd Hamilton, also of Watsonville.

Constance Waller

Mrs. Constance Waller died on July 11 in a Salinas hospital following a short illness. She was born in England and came to live in Carmel six months ago.

An employee of the June Simpson Restaurant, Mrs. Waller was a member of Local 483, Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders Union.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Patricia Ridlon of San Francisco.

Funeral services are this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea with Dr. Joseph M. Ewing of the Carmel Presbyterian Church officiating.

Irani Lad Here To Attend High School

through Monterey Peninsula College and possibly Stanford University. Petroleum engineering is the specific subject he decided long ago to concentrate on.

Although he speaks Russian, Arabic, Persian and Armenian, he felt, on his arrival here June 11, that his English was too shaky for more than monosyllabic replies to other people's conversations.

He seems to be getting over that nicely. A competent driver, he was also quick to acquire a driver's license so he can get around on his own and see the things he wants to see.

Boris's interest in getting to this country was intensified three years ago when he took a job with the American Independent Oil Company in his homeland.

The firm provides housing for its employees on a ship in the Persian Gulf. Here Boris lived, picked up English, algebra and several other subjects, read all the books in the ship's library and met the American friend who later sponsored his trip here.

However, during this time, life for Boris was very restricted. The ship is in a neutral zone claimed by both Saudi Arabia and the State of Kuwait, and it amounted to living in No Man's Land.

In this area of desolation there are no cities and only a sprinkling of population. Except for his three brothers, whose ages are now 15, four and three, Boris had never known the companionship of other young people.

Among young Sverlow's first tasks toward preparing for his life as an American student was to undergo four days of comprehensive academic testing prepared by MPC to establish a grade level commensurate with his capabilities, which seem to be tremendous.

That the senior class at Carmel was selected for him, and he for it, is a credit to Boris alone since it was mostly by his own efforts that he studied and learned during the solitary desert years.

Boris's trip here was sponsored by Charles Handford, of the Ashley-Handford Travel Agency, Carmel.

Four More Days Of Bach Festival

lian Steuber, one of the West Coast's leading woman pianists, will play the Mozart Concerto in E flat major for Piano and Orchestra.

Friday morning at 11:00 o'clock Colin and Roberta Sterne will play compositions for the virginal, recorder, harpsichord, lute, Baroque flute, and cromorne in the Carmel Woman's Club.

Friday evening's concert offers Purcell's Saul and the Witch at Endor, a dramatic cantata. Eva Heinitz will play Tartini's Concerto in D major for Viola da Gamba and Orchestra. Orlando di Lasso's motet, Tristis est Anima mea, keyboard compositions of Johann Sebastian Bach played by pianist Lillian Steuber, and K.P.E. Bach's Concerto No. 1 in B flat major for Oboe and Orchestra, played by Raymond Duste, complete Friday evening's concert.

Saturday morning brings another recital of chamber music. Saturday evening presents the first opera staged during a Bach Festival and with it the Mozart Coronation Concerto played by the internationally famous pianist Maxim Schapiro, and a composition by Marcello for string orchestra.

The dramatic Saint John Passion by Johann Sebastian Bach closes the Festival on Sunday. Soloists, chorus and orchestra will give this great choral work twice on Sunday, once at 2:30 and again at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium of Sunset School.

"No Comment" On Laundromat At Study Session

John Melville appeared before the Carmel Planning Commission yesterday afternoon seeking permission to operate an automatic laundromat in the C-1 business district, possibly 24 hours a day, in a location on the east side of Dolores Street between Seventh and Eighth Avenues. Commissioners listened to his reasons for asking them to allow the business in the restricted C-1 commercial district but gave no decision as it was a study session. Chairman George Willox informed Mr. Melville that the Commission's answer will be given at next Wednesday's regular planning commission meeting.

Mr. Melville told commissioners that self service laundromats, such as he proposes to open here, are successful all over the country and have proved to be a useful service, saving customers money, as the cost to the patron is one half that charged by laundromats operated by attendants. He said such laundries are in operation in Pacific Grove, Seaside and New Monterey, and he thought a similar laundromat would benefit Carmel.

He stated that "the prohibitive price of land" in the Carmel C-2 business district prevented him from opening his laundromat in the area zoned for this type of business. He was asking commissioners to consider the laundromat as "not heavy industry" but as "a cleaning establishment" which is permissible in the C-1 light industry zone. The building would be attractive, he promised, with washers and dryers not visible from Dolores Street. He was not in favor of zoning changes, he remarked, when Chairman George Willox told him spot zoning would be the only method of allowing the automatic laundromat to operate in C-1 zone.

Building Inspector Floyd Adams told commissioners and Mr. Melville that the city council prohibited laundromats from C-1 zone because of the traffic problem they create. Laundromats should be as far removed as possible from the shopping districts, the council believed, he said. These businesses rightfully belong in heavy industry C-2 zone the council thought. Mr. Adams also pointed out that no city ordinance prohibited 24 hours a day operation of a business in Carmel.

house, and myself, your translator, Mrs. Eva Hesse, attended the performance. Mrs. Hesse told us that her expectations have been fulfilled to a high degree. She has been praised by the critics as an excellent translator.

"Several experts from Germany were present, for instance, the director who will conduct the premiere in Switzerland.

A radio performance has been arranged for November."

"Dear Mr. Jeffers: We all had the impression that with your play you have enriched the German theater not only with a new work, but a new 'Kraftstrom" (source of energy) effecting a new, modern approach to the antique myth.

"It is for us a real joy to have the privilege of working for your dramatic creations.

"We are very sorry you could not be present at this very impressive evening.

"In November the Quelle will be presented at the Burgtheater in Vienna. We hope it will be an equally strong success.

With best wishes and greetings from Mr. Rowohlt, Mr. Ledig-Rowohlt, and from myself.

Klaus Juncker."

Traffic Stymies Planning Board

exit was deleted from the General Plan below Eighth Street by the Planning Commission. Traffic will funnel into Carmel from the freeway interchange at the northern city limits and also be the only exit, commissioners realized yesterday afternoon.

At this point Building Inspector Floyd Adams facetiously suggested traffic be tunnelled through an underpass from the interchange to the Mission.

Commissioners, however, decided to arrange a meeting between Carmel Planning Commission, the County Road Department and the State Highway Department as soon as the State interchange map is received by the city. At this meeting commissioners think a solution may be found to the traffic route puzzle.

Board Approves $1,247,393 Budget For Publication

The governing board of the Carmel Unified School District, in special session 8:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, approved for publication (see Pine Cone August 31 issue) the $1,247,393 operating budget for 1957-58. Public hearing was set for August 7, 7:15 o'clock. Tax rate will be $2.31. Last year's tax, to cover an operating budget of $880,203.91, was $1.78.

Administration costs in the new budget are $49,400; instruction, $768,300; auxiliary service, $14,800; operating cost, $87,400; maintenance, $57,500; fixed charge, $50,600; transportation, $32,900; food service, $15,600; community service, $22,200; capital outlay, $10,000; interdistrict tuition, $6,000; undistributed reserve, $52,693; general reserve, $80,000.

Income: federal subventions, $22,600; state apportionment, $240,375; apportionment for growth, $25,480; reimbursements from the state, $5,500; other reimbursements, $6,000.

Main items of increase from last years budget are $17,700 for administration (from $31,700 to $49,400); instructional costs, $262,515 (from $505,785 to $768,300); transportation, $25,474 (from $7,426 to $32,900).

At the same meeting, bids will be opened for equipment and supplies, such as visual aids, etc.

Community Chest Will Need $40,000 More This Year

"The community can and will raise necessary funds to meet budget requirements of the 19 Community Chest agencies," Richard Osborne, chairman of the Chest campaign committee, said this week.

The total sum asked, $154,000, will be somewhat reduced, he thinks, after the budget committee has cut agency demands. Mr. Osborne also stated that he feels there will be no difficulty in obtaining the more than $40,000 extra funds requested this year, considering that, if every porchlight were lit in the homes benefiting from the 19 chest agencies, seventy-five percent of the porchlights in the area would be burning.

The Community Chest Fund Drive starts in September.
